One hing is certain, currency is flowing in coniderable volume to the West, and the drain is apparently not over yet, Chicago despatches ting money very tight there. The busisas troubles in Canada have also resulted in an important transfer of funds to Montreal by the agencies in this city, The fight over dressed beef waxes hotter, roads, which are now bearing the brunt of the contest, being determined to settle the question once and for all. The Grand Trunk on the other hand shows no signs of weakening and thus far has been on top, carrying a very large proportion of the dressed beef from the West to the scaboard.

In the Northwest railroad matters are improving, at least all the indications point that way. The fact that the Granger lines have entered into a compact to avoid rate-cutting until after Fee. 20 looks like peace, and the enormous earnings further above that the troubles hitherto have not been as serious as regarded. In this connection a story was given out today that will attract widespread attention. It is that the accounts of the Chicago & Northwestern road for the five months ended Sopt. 30 showed that the company had carned sufficient to pay the dividends on both stocks for the whole year, and, after providing for the sinking fund, had $144,000 over. Scott holds Northwest and the Rockafellers are said to be buying St. Paul. Stocks in the first sales advanced % to 1½. Pacific Mail leading both movements. The trading in Reading was quite lively for a time. Ladenburg, Shalman & Co. bought 5,000. De Jonge 1,000 and Probst 500. Davis & Worden each sold 2,000 and Probst 500. Davis & Worden each sold 2,000 and Tappan 1,000. The most important fluctuation of the day was a rise of 3 points in Oregon Improvement.

FOR THE MURDER OF DR. DUGGAN.

Weidler on Trial in the Breekly: Sessions-Plea Insanity.

In Brooklyn Court of Sessions this morning the trial of George Weidler, who shot and killed Dr. Edward H. Duggan on Taylor street, Williamsburg, June 24 last, was begun. Weidler is but twenty-five years old and married. He looks much younger, though, is a bright-looking fellow with beardless face and is well built, though slender. What the cause of the murder was has not been more than hinted at yet, insanity being understood to be the plea of the defense. On the day of the tragedy Weidler followed Dr. Duggan on the latter's visit to a patient at 37 Taylor street and waited there until the at 37 Taylor street and waited there until the doctor came out. When the latter was coming down the stoop Weidler challenged him, but Dr. Duggan passed to his buggy with the remark: "I want nothing to say to you." Then the prisoner fired four shots at him, one entering the right shoulder and another penetrating the brain, causing instant death. Insanity, which it is understood the defence will claim, was produced by some act of Dr. Duggan in relation to Mrs. Weidler, whom he had been professionally attending. No other motive for the shooting is assigned.

No other motive for the shooting is assigned.

Gen. I. S. Catlin appeared for the defence, and District-Attorney Ridgeway and First Assistant John U. Shorter for the Government.
Over half an hour was lost awaiting the arrival of Dr. Joseph M. Creamer, of No. 170
North Sixth street, who made the postmortem examination of the deceased, and his testimony was first heard.

Alexander Barr, Sergeant of Police of the Sixteenth precinct, testified that on the day of the murder he was attracted to 37 Taylor street by the sound of pistol shots. He hurried to the spot where he saw two men struggling. One of these was Dr. Duggan, who, after the struggle, ran off. The prisoner chased him, and witness saw Weidler fire two shots. The doctor, after witness saw the second shot fired, fell in the street dead. Weidler was then arrested. He said nothing at the time. He was apparently sober. Heard Weidler say after the shooting, "I lost my head."

Benjamin Orr, colored, of 269 Tenth street. New York, and a coachman for the deceased, testified that on the day of the murder he drove Dr. Duggan from South Fourth and Driggs streets to 37 Taylor street. Arriving there the doctor alighted and went into number 37.

"Then," continued witness, "the prisoner.

Driggs streets to 37 Taylor street. Arriving there the doctor alighted and went into number 37.

"Then," continued witness, "the prisoner, George Weidler, came to me and asked: 'How long will Dr. Duggan be inside?' I said only a few minutes. About a minute later the doctor came out. Then I heard the prisoner say something to Dr. Duggan, but what it was I could not hear. The conversation lasted about a second. Then I saw Weidler shoot the doctor in the right arm, and the latter started on a run towards Tenth avenue. Weidler chased him with the revolver, firing as he ran."

Henry Wetteraner, of 37 Taylor, street, testified that about 2 o'clock on June 24 he left home and started towards Tenth avenue. He returned home for something and saw two men facing each other opposite 37. He heard a pistol shot, and, turning around, he saw one of the men going towards Tenth avenue, and immediately after he saw two more shots fired after the retreating figure. The man who was shot started for the street and, reaching the middle, and when just opposite No. 37 the man fell. Witness could not identify the prisoner as the man who did the shooting.

NO CURE FOR LEPROSY.

How the Dreadful Disease is Allowed to Exist in the Holy Land.

Alfred A. Green, of 327 East Seventeenth street, who has written to the Board of Health, in Philadelphia, saying that he could cure cases of leprosy, and wished to go there and operate upon Mrs. Mirando and her daughter, says that he is not a physician, but simply a humble Christian who knows simply a humble Christian who knows a thing or two and has seen many lepers. Mr. Green was not at home to-day when a Wonld reporter called upon him.

A gentleman now in this city, who has lived twenty years off and on in the Holy Land, where leprosy first originated, says that he must doubt very much whether Mr. Green or anybody else can cure a real case of leprosy. Some thirty years ago a well-known English physician said that he could cure this loathsome disease, and he went out to Jerusalem, where it is so prevalent, to put his theory into practice. For six months he came into close contact with the lepers, taking no precautions while trying to cure them. He caught the disease and was reported to have committed suicide, preferring immediate death to dying by inches. Since then it has been conceded by all physicians that leprosy is incurable.

In Jaffa, Jerusalem, Ramlch and other cities in Palestine the traveller has to pass lepers daily, begging in the streets, and they will often pluck people by the sleeve or coattal with their stubby fingers to obtain a laborate set of plans.

The Latest Explanation of Henry Ebert's believed, killed his wife and shot himself Sunday night in Jersey City, is recovering at the City Hospital and in a day or two will be placed under arrest on a charge of murder. He talks at times, though vaguely of troubles.

Chief Murphy and Architect La Bow visited the blood-stained rooms at 31 Paterson and the latter prepared an elaborate set of plans.

The cause of the tragedy is believed to be more yroughes and the insanity of the wife. Ebert had her confined in several New York institutions.

Leprosy is not as catching now as it used to be. A person is only liable to catch it if he touches or comes into close contact with a leper. It could easily be exterminated if the Turkish Government would prevent lepers from intermarrying. The children look robust and healthy until they are about twelve years old, then the disease first appears. The fingers, toes and nose are first caten up by the disease, then the arms and legs, until there is nothing but the hulk of a body. Finally it commences to eat round tha internal organs and the person is delivered from his living death. Last winter a fellah (peasant) near Ramleh caught the disease and shot himself. WILL GIBBS RETURN THE MONEY?

Twelve More Men Who Dropped Money Into

His Employment Agency and Got No Work. Twelve new complaints were received at Marshal Byrne's office to-day against John B. Gibbs's employment agency. These swell the total number of complaints against the temperance advocate to seventy-three. In some cases the men who complain had given up their last dollar to Gibbs and had not got work.

No reply has been received to the Marshal's demand for the return of the money taken from these people. He aid to-day that he had trustworthy testim by to prove that Gibbs senior was present when money was paid and demands made for its return, despite Gibbs's statement to the contrary.

BOUND OUT FOR NICARAGUA.

he Steamer Hondo, With the Micaragu Bay to Bid the Engineers Farewell.

Twenty-two boats started to-day for Grey own, Nicaragua. One was a steel steamship of 1,012 tons burden, painted a Quakerish brown, the Hondo, bound on her regular trip, but carrying an unusual passenger list. Another was the Sam Sloan, which slipped her moorings at Twenty second street, North River, at 11.15 a. M., whooped it up for the big boat as far as the Narrows and then came back to New York. The remaining twenty boats were on the Hondo. They constituted a part of the equipment of the Nicaragua Canal expedition. They are the cruising fleet for the San Francisco River, which is about ten miles from Greytown. The canal is a big thing. Nations have talked about it, and wagged their heads in approval, and the world at large, and the stockholders in particular, hope to gather abundant shekels from this surgical opera tion on the neck of the Americas.

On the Hondo were thirty-eight engineers On the Hondo were thirty-eight engineers, cart-loads of measuring instruments and stacks of provisions for eight months. They were a gay crowd, and enjoyed keenly the novelty of the start for their big job. The Sam Sloan carried a number of friends, who were taking a five-mile farewell of the festive engineers, wishing them good-luck under Nicaragua skies.

they may have an unpleasant assortment of weather to cope with.

Both the Hondo and the Sam Sloan had a hilarious party on beard. The smaller beat went snorting along after the bigger one, and blew a cheery note of final parting as she turned her nose back towards the Battery, while the Hondo ploughed ahead on her eight days' journey to Greytown.

The Hondo will stop only twice, and then for a few hours, just long enough to snatch up eighty able-bodied workmen at Fortune Island and Jamaica
